CASUAL—CORRECT—CONFIDENTIAL—Fashion eye glasses as stylistic beauty aids in addition to their primary function. At left, Claire Kahan, of New York City, models plastic-framed glasses for playtime wear. In center, she wears sophisticated, semi-rimless glasses with rhinestone and gold trim for the evening. At right, nonconformist, plastic-metal frame gives her a homespun view of her workaday world.

CONCENTRATED STUDY—Margaret Gregory, 23, travelled with her theatrical family as a child and never did get to school. In 1946 between service with the WACS she qualified for high school (which she took in one year). After another four-year hitch in service she acquired four years of college into one. She graduates next week from Syracuse University.

HAT'S GOT HIM GOAT—Once the first of the following girls done with the members you could title a picture of the headgear "Tiger Bug" except that the kitten is a pug. The Montreal report from at the Desert Travellers Museum, says "Tiger Bug."

M-O-G-O-NA LISA—Metropolitan Opera singer Herta. Lisa displays that enigmatic smile to match your sentiment at what she's doing with a glass of milk. An costume for the role of the countess in Gluck's opera, "Andrea Chénier," something more bubbly would seem to be in order. However, no matter what the role, Herta sings the praises of milk as a quick-energy drink. Her favorite formula: one cup milk, one teaspoon coffee extract, two drops vanilla, sugar to taste. She wows.

PHOTOGRAPHIC VIEWPOINT—A young amateur photographer in Ghana is found out not to be outdone by this naval professional at a parade marking Royal Artillery anniversary.

"HEY, JOE—OVER HERE"—Kansas City A's catcher Joe Adcock makes a desperate bid to snag an elusive foul off the bat of Lou Pinielli during a game with the Red Sox at Boston, Mass. One kept their eyes on the chase herebelow, too. 13-7.

GOAT'S GOT HIS HAT—And vice versa, to judge from Billie's expression. He was played with the Alpine oddity during the three-day festival which is held annually at Lucerne, Calif., by devotees of its brown-horned bovine.

MOVING UP—Current forecast point to Canada, by 1965, being the world's fourth greatest iron ore producer. Doive With Cows!
